

STOP Community Calls/AVA Connect Calls

Part 1: Tribal Engagement & Working with Urban Native Organizations: Understanding the STOP Culturally Specific Set-Aside

This session, presented by Caminar Latino and AVA will be led by Vicky Ybanez, Executive Director of Red Wind Consulting. Vicky will guide STOP Administrators through foundational strategies for engaging Tribal Nations and Urban Native-serving organizations, with a specific focus on how the STOP culturally specific set-aside can support Native survivors more effectively.

Participants will explore:

- Best practices for meaningful Tribal engagement
- The unique needs, strengths, and challenges experienced by Urban Native organizations
- Strategies to increase awareness and access to STOP culturally specific set-aside funds
- Approaches for integrating Tribal and Native-serving organizations into STOP Implementation Planning and outreach efforts

This session provides practical insights for STOP Administrators looking to build equitable, culturally grounded relationships with Native communities and expand access to STOP funding for organizations serving Native survivors.

Part 2: Supporting Native Survivors: Capacity-Building Approaches for Tribal & Urban Native Organizations

Join us for the second session of this two-part webinar series, presented by Caminar Latino and AVA, and facilitated by Vicky Ybanez, Executive Director of Red Wind Consulting. Building on the January discussion, this session will dig deeper into how STOP Administrators can strengthen their partnerships with Tribal Nations and Urban Native organizations and support these communities in accessing and utilizing STOP culturally specific set-aside funds.

This session will cover:

- Capacity-building approaches tailored for Tribal and Urban Native organizations
- Strategies for supporting Native communities in navigating STOP Culturally Specific funding structures
- Enhancing outreach, relationship-building, and communication with Native-serving organizations
- Tools for integrating Tribal engagement into Implementation Planning and ongoing STOP Culturally Specific Program administration

Participants will leave with concrete practices and a deeper understanding of how STOP funding can better reach Native survivors through culturally rooted engagement and sustained partnership development.
